

RECALLING THE PATERSON RIOT.

The Trial of Wm. Daizell for Shooting J. Van Houten on Garret Mountain.

On the 2d of May last the German Mountaineers, a high elevation south of the city, to celebrate their annual May festival and services of song to the May sun. A large concourse of people followed. Some of them, in going up the side of the hill, passed over the grounds of William Daizell. He tried to drive them off, but they went on. He armed himself with a gun, became excited, fired into the crowd and shot and killed a young man named John Joseph Van Houten. Daizell fled before the excited crowd, and made his way to a building, which was burned down over his head. He fled to another building, and that was burned also. With the assistance of the police Daizell remained in a third building and kept the crowd at bay for several hours. One hundred special officers sworn in by the Sheriff were unable to help the police, and the State militia was called upon. Further trouble was stopped by strategy. The Rev. Father McNulty, pastor of St. Joseph's Catholic Church, sent for and obtained the crowd on one side of the hill, while Daizell was taken out of the other side, put into a hawk and driven to Newark, and put in the jail there. Daizell was held in confinement for two days, and several other persons were indicted for riot. Owing to the pretenses supposed to exist against Daizell in Paterson, the court granted a writ of habeas corpus, and he was committed to trial in New Jersey. The trial was impeded in Bergen County, and the trial after several trials was held in Essex County, in Paterson, yesterday, before Judge J. Dixon, Col. A. B. Woodruff conducts the case for the State and Daizell is defended by T. Tuttle of Newark. The Gov. and the Legislature have voted $10,000 for the defense of Daizell, and the State has given him a brief racial of the facts. Stephen Lawrence testified that he had been shot in the arm and the femur with a gun. Daizell, a man and a young man, Van Houten became involved in a quarrel, during which Daizell shot deliberately at Van Houten and hit him. He did not shoot the second time as Van Houten fell dead. The crowd then began to throw stones and Daizell ran to the firehouse. A long discussion took place on the firehouse, as to the admissibility of evidence touching the subject of the stones. The Court decided not to admit such evidence, and the defendant took an exception to this ruling.

Thomas McInerney testified that he heard Daizell say on Saturday night that he was going to burn the mountain the next day and went in the bushes. Police Sergeant McBride said that when he found Daizell he was wounded and told himself that the young man was dead. He said: "Oh! my God! it's too bad. I only meant to hit him in the legs." The trial will last for several days.

KIDNAPPED AND ROBBED.

What Came of Mr. Gourau's Tour of the Bowery on Monday Evening.

Daniel Harrington, Michael Gaffney, and Thomas Hunt were arraigned yesterday in the Tombs Police Court on a charge of having kidnapped and robbed Robert F. Gourau, a farmer of Cannonsville. Gourau was in court, but he was too weak from the effects of a debauch to testify.

Policeman Jackson told Justice Patterson that about 10 o'clock on Monday night he heard cries of "Help! murder! police!" coming from a carriage that was being driven rapidly up the Broadway. He stopped for assistance, and gave pursuit. As he ran along the street he saw a man sprang out and ran away. They were Daniel Harrington and Thomas Hunt, who were subsequently arrested. Gourau, an Italian woman, who identified Hunt as the man who had snatched him into the carriage and robbed him of $75.

As Gourau could not testify, the prisoners were committed without bail.

When Thomas Hunt was being led away Policeman Minnie of the Mulberry street police force stopped him and said: "I am Minnie of June 1st. Minnie took him to the station while making an arrest on that day he was attacked by several men at Worth and Baxter streets, and he was beaten so severely until Hunt drew a pistol and shot him in the leg. Policeman Minnie produced as witness Kate Campa, an Italian woman, who identified Hunt as the man who had snatched him. After giving her testimony, when called upon to sign the affidavit, she drew back, claiming she was afraid of Patterson, and Patterson then drew from her that while visiting the room she had been threatened by Hunt's friends. He ordered the court room to be cleared, and Kate Campa to the House of Detention. Hunt was formally committed for trial.
